Call for Stories: ADA Generation Putting Together A Book - Add your story!

 Deadline: January 15, 2011 ***

Co-Editors, Ari Ne’eman and Stacey Milbern, are requesting proposals for chapters in a book-length anthology to document this legacy and record the stories of disabled young people talking about what it is to grow up with a disability in this day and age.

Seeking creative non-fiction essays from young people with disabilities ages 13-30 (some flexibility will be available for compelling submissions from individuals slightly outside our preferred age range). People with all types of disabilities are welcome to submit. Speaking from personal experience is strongly encouraged. The intent of this project is to use personal voices to capture the experience of the new generation of young people with disabilities.

Submissions should range from 2,000 to 5,000 words. Please include your address, phone number, e-mail address and a short bio on the manuscript.

Proposals are due by e-mail to voicesoftheadageneration@gmail.com to January 15, 2011 but we encourage and will consider for approval early submissions. Please e-mail co-editors Stacey Milbern and Ari Ne’eman at voicesoftheadageneration@gmail.com with questions.

Alice & Diana in Texas!

Alice Elliott and Diana Braun just returned from Corpus Christi, Texas where Diana presented at the Texas Advocate's "Catch the Wave" conference. Body & Soul: Diana & Kathy was screened and Diana conducted a workshop on specific skills for independent living. Participants went through checklist of the skills they have and the skills they would like to learn as Diana described learning to drive, cook, manage a house, make doctors appointments and advocate for her rights.

Film director and disability media expert, Alice Elliott, provides recommendations for disability resources

Alice's Tips for Choosing Media
1. Think about your audience. What will demand their active engagement? What will challenge them to think about what they know, how they know it, and how to share it with others?

2. Consider style, tone, point of view, format and length. In what context are you using the media and what do you hope to achieve?

3. Look for films that show (rather than just tell) key concepts and repeat important information in a variety of ways for different kinds of learners.

ADA NEWS
Movie Captioning and Video Description [for Movies Shown at Movie Theaters]
The Department of Justice (Department) is considering revising its regulation implementing Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) in order to establish requirements for making the goods, services, facilities, privileges, accommodations, or advantages offered by movie theater owners or operators at movie theaters accessible to individuals who are deaf or hard of hearing or who are blind or have low vision by screening movies with closed captioning or video description. The Department is issuing this Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (ANPRM) in order to solicit public comment on various issues relating to the potential application of such requirements and to obtain background information for the regulatory assessment the Department may need to prepare in adopting any such requirements.

ONE WORLD BLOG LAUNCHED!

"The blog is about travel, food, and community. It includes a unique Community and Food Waste Reduction Rating System to assist you as you seek out places to eat that care about ending food waste and to find mindful communities. This system rates how an individual, business, non profit or actual city or area builds or fosters community. It also addresses the very important issue of food waste reduction on the same levels."
