A Special Holiday Treat!

This month, in the spirit of giving, Trusted Source would like to provide you with a special video. Below, you can watch Diana Braun teach a young girl how to use an iPad. We made this video to highlight how people with disabilities can use technology.

Often, the abilities of people with I.D. to use technology are strongly underestimated. We wanted to show that through training and support, they are capable and can be highly creative when it comes to using technology like iPads and cell phones. They also are able to teach others how to use technology. Diana enjoyed a combination of individual and class training from Best Buy.

Enjoy the video below, complete with subtitles and audio descriptions! And please consider donating to the Arc of Illinois for being so wise and generous with their technology services.

For a good laugh, we would also like to recommend the video series "Stare at Shannon," created by Shannon DeVido, a comedian, actress, writer and singer who is a wheelchair user. She has tons of hilarious holiday related videos, and you can start with Elf on the Shelf and Hungover.

Happy Holidays!

There is so much exciting and well-made media about disability made today. The challenge is knowing where to find it, and how to use it.

Trusted Source is a monthly media recommendation that you can use in your trainings and classrooms, and that you can share with your networks. We hope you find these pieces as insightful and inspiring as we do.
