The Interviewer

“We use cast and crew that have a variety of different disabilities, but that doesn't change our professional attitude. We believe that people with a disability can be involved in making professional films and creating work of excellence."

-Genevieve Clay-Smith, Executive Director of Bus Stop Films

The Interviewer is an award winning short film from Australia co-directed by Genevieve Clay-Smith and Robin Bryan. The film follows Thomas Howell, as he nervously awaits a job interview at a prestigious law firm. Thomas is surprised and confused when he realizes his interviewer and possible boss, James Dexter,
This film challenges the stereotypes associated with people with disabilities. James’ character is well developed, complex and his Down syndrome is not his defining characteristic.

This film sheds light on social issues, particularly stigmas against people with disabilities, while also remaining light and entertaining.

The creators of The Interviewer stayed true to "nothing for us without us," by mentoring twelve filmmakers with disabilities who played roles in every step of the filmmaking process.

There is so much exciting and well-made media about disability. The challenge is knowing where to find it, and how to use it.

Trusted Source is a monthly media recommendation that you can use in your trainings, classrooms, and share with your networks. We hope you enjoy this media and find it insightful.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>JAMES’ CHARACTER</th>
<th>COMIC RELIEF</th>
<th>THE TEAM</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>This film challenges the stereotypes associated with people with disabilities. James’ character is well developed, complex and his Down syndrome is not his defining characteristic.</td>
<td>This film sheds light on social issues, particularly stigmas against people with disabilities, while also remaining light and entertaining.</td>
<td>The creators of The Interviewer stayed true to &quot;nothing for us without us,&quot; by mentoring twelve filmmakers with disabilities who played roles in every step of the filmmaking process.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
You've received this email because you or someone you know subscribed you to Trusted Source. Please feel free to unsubscribe - we promise you won't hear from us again!